BY WILLIAM E. SIMMONS, Jr., is the travelling agent for THE NEWS, for South Carolina.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

—Gold closed on Saturday at 141.

—Cotton closed firm in New York; uplands 26 1/2 cents.

—Cotton in Liverpool closed steady; uplands 11 1/2d.

—The first street railroad in Florida will shortly be opened at Cedar Key.

—The military system of Prussia, with some modifications, is to be adopted in Japan.

—It is reported that the New York strike will extend to Philadelphia and Baltimore during the present week.

—George F. Clark, balloonist of Noyes's circus, fell fifty feet, at Memphis, on Saturday. He will probably die.

—The Shelby Female College, at Shelbyville, Ky., was destroyed by fire on Thursday night. Loss about $15,000.

—Advices from Pensacola, Fla., reports that Mr. Stephen R. Mallory, ex-Confederate secretary of the navy, has declared his intention to work and vote for Greeley.

—The carpenters and masons of Berlin, Prussia, who recently struck, have had their demands acceded to by the masters. Their pay is now one dollar and twenty cents for a day of ten hours.

—The cable announces the death, in London, of Mr. Frank Key Howard, for many years the principal editor of the Baltimore Gazette and its predecessor, the Daily Exchange. He had been in Europe, for some time, in pursuit of health.

—Colonel Thomas A. Scott, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Road, has been ordered by his physician to stop work if he would live.

The president of the road has gone to Europe for his health, and the second vice-president has been taken to an insane asylum. Railroad men work too fast.

—A New York letter says: "Cut-glass is again becoming very fashionable, and chandeliers need a quarter of a century, are now being reintroduced. Tiffany offers whole sets for bondholders, including tempting Venetian mirrors. At some of the recent dinner parties, glassware entirely superseded china, the plates, glassware dishes, &c. being all of solid cut-glass. These were, of course, most brilliant and effective by gaslight."

—Fully nine-tenths of the Democratic newspapers in the United States are favorable to the adoption of the Cincinnati nominations at Baltimore. Every Grant paper in the country, without exception, is desirous that the Democrats should nominate a straight Democratic ticket. The significance of these facts is too obvious to require comment. They tell the whole story in a few words, and so plainly that no one can mistake its meaning.

—The Metropolitan Greeley and Brown Campaign Club has been organized in Richmond, Va., with a fine list of members. The president is Franklin Stearns, a thorough Republican. Among the vice-presidents are Judge Robert Old, Judge John A. Meredith, General J. D. Imboden, General Bradley T. Johnson, W. B. Isaac, Wm. S. White, and other prominent citizens. The other officers are all gentlemen well known and highly respected in that community and throughout the State. It is expected that not less than one thousand members will be enrolled in this club within the next few weeks.

—The Emperor of China is at last to take a wife and organize a harem, or rather have one organized for him. As a preliminary the Empress Dowager have published three decrees, one naming the empress elect, another appointing three ladies of the harem, and the third ordering the astronomical board to select a lucky day in October for the marriage. The future empress is named Alute, a Mongol by descent, and the daughter of Chung Chi, an officer of the Hanlin College, whose father was a Mandarin of high rank. One of the three ladies is an aunt of the bride, and the other two are daughters of subordinate officials.

—Among the matters considered last week by the Methodist General Conference in Brooklyn was the prohibition of sinful amusements. There was quite a lively discussion of the subject, some of the ministry thinking the church ought to specify what amusements are sinful, while Rev. Dr. Slicer and others thought something must be left to the consciences of individual members in the matter. Croquet was savagely attacked, and one delegate remarked that billiards should be included in the forbidden list. They did as much harm to young men as dancing to young women. Another brother said that dancing wouldn't hurt the young men if they only danced alone—without men—whereupon "a worldly-wise" delegate remarked, "But they don't care about dancing that way." And he was right, too.

—One hundred anvils, to be used in the Boston Peace Jubilee have arrived from England in the Cunard steamer Olympus. The members of the Strauss Orchestra, of Vienna, are certainly coming. Twenty five cannons have already been provided. Military bands, royal and otherwise, are waiting for the orders of the triumphant Gilmore. And the Japanese Embassy have all received invitations to be present. This is the last news, and is authentic. It is just the sort of thing that will be enjoyed by these distinguished foreigners immensely. It will remind them of their native land, and we should not wonder if, when the anvils come into play, they shed tears. Sweet memories of gongs and tom-toms, and clashing cymbals, will melt their usual stolid composure. Envy at the inferiority of their own land—in making the loudest noise—to that of the "outside barbarians" of Boston, will complete their grief, and if some of them commit them and there hark! it will be a matter of regret, but can hardly be one of surprise.

—Speaking of the seeming success of the eight-hour movement in New York, the Journal of Commerce says that the surrender of the employer to the strike is but a hollow and short-lived truce. They have all given in under protest, written or oral, and with no expectation that the arrangement will last long. Those who have yielded the most submissively have frankly told their hands that the new terms are only an experiment, and that it would be sure to fail; and that next fall or winter, or whenever slack work and hard times come, the concession would have to be reconsidered. The strikers themselves realize this, and know that having taken advantage of the busy season to enforce their demands, the pinch must come, when the employers will seriously consider whether the loss by closing the shops will not be less than the loss by keeping them open. Mr. Steinway told his men that the twenty per cent. addition to the cost of manufacturing piano-fortes by the eight-hour movement would kill his export trade, reduce his business fifty per cent., and finally drive him to seek refuge from the eight-hour movement in Astoria. For the operative piano-makers of New York and other mechanics the obvious alternative is either to secure a diffusion of the movement all over the country, and thus place all manufacturers on the same footing, or to make up their minds to follow the trade, which will be sacrificed where the eight-hour law prevails, into quarters where no eight-hour limit has been fixed.

Governor Scott's Little Game.

The injunctions granted by Judge Willard, on Saturday, strengthen the suspicion that Governor Scott is preparing a financial coup-d'état which will astonish the public creditors, add a crowning glory to his administration, and fill his yawning pockets. Having alarmed the bondholders by the announcement that the Legislature had made no provision for the payment of the interest on the State debt, an assertion which he knows to be glaringly untrue, he now causes the State treasurer, to be enjoined from receiving the Revenue bond scrip in payment of taxes, and from paying any drafts which the State treasurer has drawn upon them. Under this injunction the delinquent taxpayers whose property, to the amount of hundreds of thousands of acres, will be sold within the next two or three weeks, must pay their taxes in cash, and purchasers must pay cash, instead of scrip, for what lands they buy. This will glut the treasury, and, as the drafts drawn in exchange for an unconscionable amount of legislative pay bills cannot, under the injunction, be paid, there would seem to be no reason why the whole sum will not be available for the payment of the overdue interest on the State debt, or for such other purpose as will cause the bonds to advance and fill the coffers of the Ring. The existence of a huge official speculation is the only interpretation that can be put upon the extraordinary letter of Governor Scott's secretary, taken in connection with the injunctions which have so swiftly followed it.

A CONSIDERATE correspondent sends us the names of a number of candidates for whom he and his friends propose to vote in October. We are pleased to publish all such communications—at fifteen cents a line.

A SLUR of the pen caused us to say on Saturday that the original Dolly Varden was the innkeeper's daughter in Barnaby Rudge—it should have been the locksmith's daughter.

THE Clarendon Press advocates the sending of delegates to the Baltimore Convention who shall use their influence against a Democratic nomination.

The Nomination of Judge Willard.

Colonel M. R. Delany, as the spokesman of several thousand colored Republicans, formally invited Mr. Justice Willard, of the State Supreme Court, to say whether he would be willing to become a candidate for Governor of South Carolina on the basis of (1) an honest, impartial and economical administration of the government on Republican principles; (2) rural homesteads to the freedmen and poor whites—this to be accomplished without an increase of taxation; (3) education of the common people on the public school system; (4) half of the State officers white and half colored, namely, the Governor, Attorney-General, Superintendent of Education and Treasurer to be white, and the Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Adjutant-General and Comptroller-General to be colored men—competency in each being always required, and the same rule of division to apply, where practicable, to county officers.

In his reply, which together with Colonel Delany's letter is printed in The Republican of Saturday, Judge Willard says that his inclinations lead him in the direction of a judicial life, but this is not a time for personal considerations to have weight. He is satisfied that the State is able to provide for the discharge of all her obligations if financial reform begins at once, and after a full discussion of the political situation announces that if he receives "the Republican nomination as Governor," on a basis embodying the propositions submitted to him, he will unhesitatingly accept it.

Judge Willard was born in Albany, N. Y., in 1822, and was admitted to the bar in 1845. Three years later he was appointed assistant counsel of the corporation of New York under Judge Davis. In 1849 the election of a Democrat deprived him of his office, and he was associated in the practice of his profession, at different times, with Judge Morrill and Judge Howe. In November, 1864, he entered the Union army, and received a commission as Lieutenant-Colonel of the Thirty-fifth Regiment of colored troops. When he left the service in 1866 he was appointed Solicitor of the Second Military District, and to take charge of the Bureau of Civil Affairs, which position he held until elected Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of this State by the General Assembly on the 30th of July, 1868. Judge Willard is a man of undoubted ability, and is highly esteemed for the dignity with which he has discharged the onerous duties of his office.

The Aiken Tribune is authorized to say that the State Radical Convention, for the nomination of a State ticket and other business, will not be called until the latter part of August or early in September.

The Lancaster Ledger says that no good can come from a do-nothing policy, and this State should be represented in the Baltimore Convention "at all hazards." Relief to the State "must come from the National party." In case the Democracy nominate a straight ticket, the South Carolina delegates should "withdraw from the Convention."

Sound Advice from a Veteran Statesman.

General James Chesnut, in a letter addressed to the Democrats of Kershaw County, says that he has great faith in the Cincinnati movement. He does not believe that the Democratic party, pure and simple, can restore constitutional government, and he sees nothing in the avowed purposes of the Liberal Republican party that we should object to. Mr. Greeley he looks upon as the symbol of peace in the land, purity in the government and prosperity among the people; also, as the symbol of the restoration of law and liberty, with equal rights and protection to all. Upon the two important questions now under discussion in this State, General Chesnut says:

"First. Ought the State to send a delegation to the Democratic Convention to meet hereafter in Baltimore? Upon this point you all know there has been developed an honest difference of opinion among some of our friends. For my part, I am clear, under all the circumstances it is best for us to do so. That Convention will assemble, with us or without us. We are deeply concerned in the action it may take, and, therefore, we ought to endeavor to influence that action. I believe a separate nomination would defeat our hopes, and result only in the election of Generals Grant. This of course we deplore. It follows that we should try to effect such a nomination. It is possible, and even probable, that the vote of our delegation may prevent it. If we are there represented, we can lose nothing, whatever course the Convention may take; but if we are not represented, we may lose what we have greatly at heart. So important do I consider this matter to be that I would hazard Mr. Greeley's entire vote in this State rather than forego the chance, even of influencing the action of the Baltimore Convention—inasmuch as the vote of this State would be of no avail to the Liberal candidates if the organized Democracy of the North should declare against them. I have reason to believe that this result can be and will be prevented; but to this end our help is required. It appears to me, then, that policy and duty alike demand that we should send to Baltimore a proper delegation."

"The other and last question I propose to consider is of some consequence. What effect is it probable that the success of the coalition proposed will have upon the welfare of South Carolina? In my judgment, great and beneficial in many particulars. I believe it would cause the innumerable Federal offices in the State to be filled throughout with proper incumbents, much to our relief, and increasing our strength. That those who have converted into the dens of thieves, would no longer feed the countenance, moral support, and material aid of the authorities at Washington. This would give us a better chance to thwart and check the reckless misrule of foreign domination. I believe if Mr. Greeley had the power he would put a general veto on secessionism. If such a thing were possible, how it would emit, hip and thigh, the Republican Ring in South Carolina. It would shock the mercenary circle all over. Besides, our success would cause, I think, a division of the party here; for surely there must be some honest and intelligent men among them, white as well as colored, who are waiting only for that sort of moral support which the Liberal Republicans can give. Further, the flaming sword would be sheathed, the military power withdrawn, and the country placed under the government of municipal law, instead of bayonets. Tranquillity thus restored, the people would enjoy their homes in quiet and cultivate their lands in peace."

The Wallala Courier does not deny that our chief interests centre in the State, but it believes that "national success is the only road, in our present condition, to State success."

THE Georgetown Times says: "All the 'other Southern States will be represented' at Baltimore, and for South Carolina to 'refuse joining them in counsel would be for her to arrogate to herself a superiority in 'patriotism and wisdom not possessed by her 'Southern sisters.'"

THE Laurens Herald says: "With all due respect to old leaders, and those who 'formerly shaped public opinion, we think 'the time has come for them to retire, at least to some degree. They may represent 'the power behind the throne, yet we think 'the logic of events' would dictate to them 'that they are no longer the throne itself. 'They have, in a political sense, become 'superannuated, and must hereafter be content to rest upon the pension of their 'former laurels.'"

Hostetter's Bitters.

IT is a DEAD DELUSION—THE THEORY that human beings whose strength has been exhausted by pain and sickness can be restored by depleting medicines and water gruel, if not absolutely a dead delusion, is in the last agonies of dissolution. At length it is understood that strength cannot be purged into a debilitated frame, though life may easily be purged out of it, and that it is as absurd as to withhold a healthful stimulant from the weak, in the expectation that they will rally without one, as it would be to deprive a lamp of oil and expect it to burn the brighter for it.

The immense and uniform success which has attended the use of the wonderful combination of a pure stimulant with the finest medicinal herbs, known as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, has largely assisted in dispelling the absurd chimeras. Frantic attempts are made to revive it, but in vain. When the sick feel that their strength is departing, and that unless invigorated they must utterly break down, it is in vain to tender them feeble doses in the place of genuine restoratives. They may be imposed upon in this way, but the imposition cannot be repeated. They desire to be refreshed, comforted, braced up, and decline to be gripped a second time.

Under the operation of the Bitters, on the other hand, all the processes necessary to physical restoration go on simultaneously. The system is stimulated and toned, the bowels regulated, the appetite cultivated, the nerves composed and the condition of the blood improved at one and the same time by a single medicine. Common sense tells us that such a preparation must be invaluable.
